

BRINDELL'S CHIEF ASSISTANT BACK; CROWLEY LEAVES

Roswell D. Tompkins Again
Secretary of Building
Trades Council.

Dissension in the Building Trades Council over the new agreement plan with the Building Trades Employers' Association has resulted in further defections from the council and the resignation of Patrick Crowley, who has been President of that body since Robert P. Brindell was sent to Sing Sing Prison for extortion. Roswell D. Tompkins, former secretary of the council who was revealed by the Lockwood Legislative Investigating Committee as one of Brindell's chief assistants, has been returned to office.

When Crowley withdrew from the council, where he has been a delegate for many years from the Marble Cutters' Union, three leaders of masonry workers went with him. These, together with the painters', stone cutters', plumbers', plasterers' and bricklayers' unions, which have already quit the council, it was rumored, may be the nucleus of a new council, to be organized by the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor. They represent a membership of more than 40,000 workers.

The present Building Trades Council was outlawed by the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor because of its alleged obnoxious rules and practices. John Donlin, President of the Federation department, was instructed at the last convention of the department to organize a new council in this city. In the meantime, all relations between the local body and the Federation department were severed.

Thomas B. Clark, business agent of the United Electrical Workers' Union, Local 5, was elected successor to Crowley, and John Halkett, business agent of the Carpenters and Joiners District Council, was made Vice President. They were chosen by the majority of the delegates who favor the new wage arrangement with the employers' association.

The return of Tompkins after the Lockwood Committee's revelations caused considerable surprise in building trades circles. Since the building inquiry he has been serving as Secretary of the Board of Delegates in Brooklyn.

Despite the dissension in the council, Mr. Crowley said he did not believe the employers would attempt to force a wage reduction upon the various crafts at this time because of the present building boom and labor shortage.
